In Geometry Dash, players control the movement of an icon and navigate music-based levels while avoiding obstacles such as spikes and platforms. The game is available on PC, PS4, and Xbox One. It was developed by RobTop and released in 2013. The game has a large fan base and has been featured in several esports tournaments, including the 2015 EVO Championship.

Two of the main protagonists are the characters known as the "0 0" and the "bet365". They were created by the game's developer, RobTop, and have become popular among players. The "0 0" character is a simple black circle with two white dots for eyes, while the "bet365" character is a more complex, multi-colored figure.
